An “investigative consumer report” is a special type of consumer report. If we intend to request such a report, you will be given a separate disclosure which describes such a report and your particular rights in that regard. Any information obtained through a consumer report will be used for employment purposes only, and will not be used in violation of any Federal or State equal opportunity law or regulation.

In the event information from a “consumer report” is to be utilized in whole or in part in making an adverse decision with regard to your potential or continued contractual relationship, before making the adverse decision we will provide you with a copy of the consumer report provided to us, and a description of your rights under the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act. A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, by September 2005, all consumer will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.

- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the list these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5 OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identify theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:

3. In event of termination of this Agreement by the death or commencement of total and permanent disability of Agent, thereafter the renewal commissions and deferred first year commissions which otherwise would be paid to Agent if this Agreement had remained in force will be paid to Agent, if living, otherwise to the spouse of Agent, or if such spouse shall not survive Agent or shall die prior to final payment, then to the estate of Agent, for a period of five years following such termination.
4. In event of termination of this Agreement other than as provided in Paragraph 3, renewal commissions and deferred first year commissions thereafter will be payable as follows:
 - (a) If this Agreement shall have been in force less than one year, no renewal commissions or deferred first year commissions will be payable after such termination.
 - (b) If this Agreement shall have been in force one year or more, the renewal commissions and deferred first year commissions which otherwise would be paid to agent if this Agreement had remained in force, will be paid to Agent, if living, otherwise to the spouse of Agent, or if such spouse shall not survive Agent or shall die prior to final payment, then to the estate of Agent, but such commissions will not be payable for more than nine years following termination.
 - (c) Payment of renewal commissions and deferred first year commissions under this Paragraph 4 will be made to Agent, Agent's spouse or the executor or administrator of Agent's estate, as the case may be, only if such commissions shall amount to at least $600.00 each year, commencing with the date of such termination, and in event said commissions shall be less than $600.00 for each such year, no further renewal commissions or referred first year commissions will be paid.
 - (d) Provided, however, in event of termination of this Agreement for cause as defined in 14(d), no renewal commissions will be payable thereafter.
5. In event any policy placed hereunder shall lapse and be reinstated by a representative of Company other than Agent, no commissions will be paid Agent on premiums received for or after such reinstatement.
6. No commissions will be paid on any policy not accepted by the applicant or on any application not accepted by the Company.
7. Company may offset against and deduct from any commissions payable hereunder any indebtedness of Agent to Company, and such indebtedness shall be a first lien against all such commissions.
8. No assignment of this Agreement or any commissions accruing under it or any interest therein shall be valid, except with the prior written consent of Company.
9. Agent agrees not to deliver any policy until settlement has been received for the first premium therefore.

10. Agent shall immediately return to Company any undelivered policy issued on the application of a person who, to the knowledge of Agent, becomes impaired in health after making application.
11. Rebating in any form, directly or indirectly, is prohibited. No representation shall be made for the purpose of inducing a policyholder in this or any other company to lapse, forfeit or surrender insurance.
12. Nothing contained herein shall be construed to create the relationship of employer and employee between Company and Agent, who shall be free to exercise Agent's own judgement as to the persons solicited and the time and place of solicitation, but Company may from time to time issue instruction respecting the conduct of said business, not interfering with such freedom of action, which instructions shall be conformed to by Agent.
13. Failure of Company to insist upon strict compliance by Agent with any of the conditions of this Agreement, or the instructions of Company, shall not be construed as a waiver of same, but they will continue to be in full force and effect.
14. Termination Provisions:

U.S. person

Use Form W-9 only if you are a U.S. person (including a resident alien), to provide your correct TIN to the person requesting it (the requester) and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued),
2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or
3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee.

Note: If a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to the IRS form W-9.

For federal tax purposes you are considered a person if you are:

- An individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States or under the laws of the United State, or
- Any estate (other than a foreign estate) or trust. See Regulations sections 301.7701-6(a) and 7(a) for additional information.

Special rules for partnerships

Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax on any foreign partners' share of income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, a partnership is required to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid withholding on your share of partnership income.

The person who gives Form W-9 to the partnership for purposes of establishing its U.S. status and avoiding withholding on its allocable share of net income from the partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States is in the following cases: (1) The U.S. owner of a disregarded entity and not the entity, (2) The U.S. grantor or other owner of a grantor trust and not the trust, and (3) The U.S. trust (other than a grantor trust) and not the beneficiaries of the trust.

Foreign person

If you are a foreign person, do not use Form W-9. Instead, use the appropriate Form W-8 (see Pub. 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities).

Nonresident alien who becomes a resident alien

Generally, only a nonresident alien individual may use the terms of a tax treaty to reduce or eliminate U.S. tax on certain types of income. However, most tax treaties contain a provision known as a "saving clause." Exceptions specified in the saving clause may permit an exemption from tax to continue for certain types of income even after the recipient has otherwise become a U.S. resident alien for tax purposes.

If you are a U.S. resident alien who is relying on an exception contained in the saving clause of a tax treaty to claim an exemption from U.S. tax on certain types of income, you must attach a statement to Form W-9 that specifies the following five items: (1) The treaty country. Generally, this must be the same treaty under which you claimed exemption from tax as a nonresident alien. (2) The treaty article addressing the income. (3) The article number (or location) in the tax treaty that contains the saving clause and its exceptions. (4) The type and amount of income that qualifies for the exemption from tax. (5) Sufficient facts to justify the exemption from tax under the terms of the treaty article.

Example: Article 20 of the U.S.-China income tax treaty allows an exemption from tax for scholarship income received by a Chinese student temporarily present in the United States. Under U.S. law, this student will become a resident alien for tax purposes if his or her stay in the United States exceeds 5 calendar years. However, paragraph 2 of the first Protocol to the U.S.-China treaty (dated April 30, 1984) allows the provisions of Article 20 to continue to apply even after the Chinese student becomes a resident alien of the United States. A Chinese student who qualifies for this exception (under paragraph 2 of the first protocol) and is relying on this exception to claim an exemption from tax on his or her scholarship or fellowship income would attach to Form W-9 a statement that includes the information described above to support that exemption.

If you are a nonresident alien or a foreign entity not subject to backup withholding, give the requester the appropriate completed Form W 8.

What is backup withholding?

Persons making certain payments to you must, under certain conditions, withhold and pay to the IRS 28% of such payments (after December 31, 2002). This is called "backup withholding." Payments that may be subject to backup withholding include: interest, dividends, broker and barter exchange transactions, rents, royalties, nonemployee pay, and certain payments from fishing boat operators. Real estate transactions are not subject to backup withholding.

You will not be subject to backup withholding on payments you receive if you give the requester: (1) your reportable name and correct TIN, (2) make the proper certifications, and (3) report all your taxable interest and dividends on your tax return.

Payments you receive will be subject to backup withholding if: (1) You do not furnish your TIN to the requester, or (2) You do not certify your TIN when required, or (3) The IRS tells the requester that you furnished incorrect TIN, or (4) The IRS tells you that you are subject to backup withholding because you did not report all your reportable interest and dividends on your tax return, or (5) You do not certify to the requester that you are not subject to backup withholding under 4 above (for reportable interest & dividend accounts opened after 1983 only).

Certain payees and payments are exempt from backup withholding. Also see Special rules regarding partnerships above.

Penalties

Failure to furnish TIN. If you fail to furnish your correct TIN to a requester, you are subject to a penalty of $50 for each such failure unless your failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

Civil penalty for false information with respect to withholding. If you make a false statement with no reasonable basis that results in no backup withholding, you are subject to a $500 penalty.

Criminal penalty for falsifying information. Willfully falsifying certifications or affirmations may subject you to criminal penalties including fines and/or imprisonment. Misuse of TINs. If the requester discloses or uses TINs in violation of federal law, the requester may be subject to civil and criminal penalties.

Exempt from Backup Withholding

Generally, individuals (including sole proprietors) are NOT exempt from backup withholding.

If you are exempt from backup withholding, you should: - complete this form to avoid possible erroneous backup withholding. - Enter your name in the taxpayer name area, - check the appropriate Tax ID# Status box, then - check the Exemption box in Part 2 and - circle the exemption reason number, - sign, and - date this form.

The following payees are exempt from backup withholding:

2. The United States or any of its agencies or instrumentalities,
3. A state, the District of Columbia, a possession of the United States, or any of their political subdivisions or instrumentalities,
4. A foreign government or any of its political subdivisions, agencies, or instrumentalities, or
5. An international organization of any of its agencies or instrumentalities.

Other payees that may be exempt from backup withholding include: (6) A corporation is usually exempt, but NOT (a) entities providing or billing for medical or health care services or (b) gross proceeds paid to attorneys, (7) A foreign central bank of issue, (8) A dealer in securities or commodities required to register in the United States, the District of Columbia, or a possession of the United States, (9) A futures commission merchant registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, (10) A real estate investment trust, (11) An entity registered at all times during the tax year under the Investment Company Act of 1940, (12) A common trust fund operated by a bank under section 584(a), (13) A financial institution, (14) A middleman known in the investment community as a nominee or custodian, or (15) A trust exempt from tax under section 664 or described in section 4947.

Privacy Act Notice

Sec. 6109 of the Internal Rev. Code requires you to provide your correct TIN to persons who must file information returns with the IRS to report interest, dividends, and certain other income paid to you, mortgage interest you paid, the acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, or contributions you made to an IRA or Archer MSA or HSA. The IRS used the numbers for identification purposes and to help verify the accuracy of your tax return. The IRS may also provide this information to the Dept. of Justice for civil and criminal litigation, and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia to carry out their tax laws. We may also disclose this information to other countries under a tax treaty, or to Federal and state agencies to enforce Federal nontax criminal laws or to federal law enforcement and intelligence agencies to combat terrorism.

You must provide your TIN whether or not you are required to file a tax return. Payers must generally withhold 28% of taxable interest, dividend, and certain other payments to a payee who does not give a TIN to a payer. Certain penalties may also apply.
